Herbert A. McAneny, a Teacher for Whom You Wanted to Learn

"Some teachers kind of cowed you into learning, but with Mr. McAneny, you wanted to learn..."

After 40 years as a Princeton schoolmaster, Herbert A. McAneny retired last week. Princeton Day School gave him a reception, a new canoe and innumerable words of respect and affection.

Lean and sunburned, looking very fit, he claimed the party was a complete surprise. "The reason I have survived for 40 years in modern times is because I just don't know what's going on... I only know that I have felt much love for this place, and for you — and it has come back to me."

"I knew him when I was at Princeton Country Day, which was just for boys 4th grade through 9th. He always had a howeroom where the desks and chairs were nailed down. He taught English and Ancient History, and coached soccer and baseball. I remember him as probably the only teacher in the school who rarely got angry... Same on the soccer field. He wasn't striding the sidelines, screaming at you, but you wanted to put out for the guy."

Always, and above all, a teacher, Mr. McAneny was also assistant headmaster and headmaster of Country Day School. In 1965, he was one of the committee of four teacher-administrators who undertook to close Miss Fine's School for girls and Country Day, combining them into the new Princeton Day School.

"It's a job for a younger man," he is quoted as saying when offered the headmastership of the new school, and served instead as senior member of the committee, developing policy, school philosophy and, for the first time in his career, administering a co-educational school. He tackled large problems and complained amusedly about little ones ("Can't ANY-ONE date a memo?"), taught English and directed plays.

"I've known him for about 35 years, and he hasn't changed one iota. He's very fond of the kids, but he's a dignified person — and the kids soon learn that he is someone who can give them something."

When Douglas O. McClure was installed as headmaster at PDS, Mr. McAneny turned his energies to the Upper School as assistant headmaster. Through the intuitive leadership that is his hallmark, he and the faculty were well on the way to achieving as cohesive a unit of teenagers as may be found in this generation, when Sanford Bing arrived to continue his work. In this last year or so, he has subsided with apparent pleasure into teaching 8th grade English and directing memorable school plays.

"When I first knew Herbert, he was a student at the Riverdale School, up along the Hudson there. I admired him as Cassius in "Julius Caesar" and as Poohohi in "The Mikado." He was Head Boy of the school in his senior year, 1919, which was quite an honor..."

After graduating from Riverdale, he attended Williams College, where he was active in Cap and Bells. He was a graduate student in literature at Oxford for two years and in London met his wife, Marguerite, a Barnard alumna who held a fellowship in literature at the Sorbonne. Now former manager of the McCarter Theatre and curator of the Theatre Collection at Princeton University, Mrs. McAneny's keen love of the theatre

LEGION'S BOYS STATE APPOINTEES: Princeton Post 76 has appointed delegates to the American Legion's 57th Annual Boys State Program to be held next week at Rider College. Above are Robert C. Schmidt, Post 76 Chairman Robert W. Beaso of Ilwaco School; Keot Bain, Bart Harris and Randall Green, all from Princeton High School. The fifth delegate, James Ward of Princeton High, could not be present for the photo. The public is invited to observe the proceedings any time during the week but particularly to attend the Friday evening, June 25, program when the Boys State Band gives a concert and an address is made by the Governor of Boys State.

Three Abstain as New PHS Principal Is Named

A 37-year-old guidance and counseling specialist with a background in commercial arts has been appointed Principal of Princeton High School, effective July 1.

She is Dr. Patricia Wertheimer, presently administrator at John Adams High School, Portland, Oregon and director of research and teacher training at the school.

Her appointment was approved Tuesday night by the board of education in a 31 vote with three abstentions. Dr. Philip Cruickshank, Dr. William Marvel and Winthrop Pike abstained. Mrs. Kathleen Edwards voted "no." Robert Bierman, C. George Fitzgerald, Hannah Fox, Evelyn Goddes and Henry Powsner voted "Yes."

During 1969-69 as part of her doctorate in education at Harvard (title: "Improving School Climate"), Mrs. Wertheimer and four other Harvard educators planned all phases of the new, innovative high school that became John Adams High.

In the school's first year—1968-70—she served as Dean of Girls and vice principal of guidance and counseling. She became head of the Clinical Division directing teacher training, in 1970.

"Urban Sensitivity." At a press conference announcing Dr. Wertheimer's selection, Princeton's Superintendent Philip E. McPherson described John Adams as an urban school, with only 30% of its students destined for college. He said that Dr. Wertheimer, from her work in this milieu, has an "urban sensitivity" which he feels will be valuable at Princeton High School.

Dr. Wertheimer is leaving Portland because her husband has accepted a post as principal.

This Is Princeton

Professor of philosophy at the City University of New York. The Wertheimers, who hope to live in Princeton, have one child, a son in the Middle School age bracket.

When her departure from John Adams became known, friends in Portland and here in the east, recommended her to Dr. McPherson. This was before the resignation of Miss Florence Burke as Princeton High principal.

After Miss Burke's resignation, Dr. Wertheimer was considered for the job along with more than 100 other applicants, and she met the high school administrative staff, including Miss Burke.

Only One Interviewed. She was the only candidate whom the entire school board was invited to interview. Not all members were able to be present but a tape was made of the meeting for absentees.

In addition, about two dozen of the high school staff met her. Dr. McPherson said, and were favorably impressed. She was interviewed, described the new principal as "a practical, down-to-earth, common sense person, but with strong theoretical knowledge as well."

Her salary will depend on the new administrators' contract, still not negotiated. Probably she will come in at the beginning level. Dr. McPherson said, and not with the experience of a principalship. She is aware of this situation, he said.

Dr. Wertheimer, a native of Carlizzo, New Mexico, received a Bachelor of Fine Arts in advertising design from the Philadelphia College of Art in 1957 and worked for three years as an advertising designer for the John Wanamaker store in Philadelphia.

She turned to teaching at Academia Loyola in Mexico City, where she taught both art and English, and from that time—1961—devoted her career to teaching.

She holds a masters' in art education and a masters' in guidance, both from Harvard. She did her internship in Lexington, Mass. and in the South Short Mental Health Center, Quincy, Mass.

Abstention Explained. Dr. Marvel said he was abstaining because, having been absent at Dr. Wertheimer's board interview, he had telephoned her and found her ignorant of the current Guidance-Special Services controversy at Princeton High. (See elsewhere, Topics in the Town.)

When he explained it to her, he said she expressed reservations toward a system requiring the guidance director to report to two people, the system voted into operation by the board.

Mrs. Edwards said she would vote "no" because the board only interviewed one candidate and Dr. Cruickshank said he would abstain for the same reason. C. George Fitzgerald said the new principal would bring strength to the school because of her background in guidance.

Although her appointment is effective July 1, Dr. Wertheimer is not expected to be fully active in her job until August 1, Dr. McPherson said.

The principalship is a tough job, but she is a very strong person and I have no qualms," the superintendent said.

March 2 — Jobe Stevens born, with a tiny pair of ice skates on his tiny-bitty feet.

It was only to be expected that in 1933 Mr. McAneny would be a founding member of the Community Players, along with Richard Field, Dr. Sinclair, Donald Clive Stuart and B. Franklin Bunn. "Cook Robins was the first production, with Marguerite directing and Herbert in the cast. He directed many of the plays.

"Herbert was a very sensitive director, very understanding of the actor's problem. He directed me in "Lured Street" with Bill Snow, Pat Starhan and Gussy Stuart. Then I had the very great pleasure of directing him in "The Diary of Anne Frank" at PDS. I think that was his finest performance. It was a first, I set in the back of the house at every performance — the play was a fresh thing each night!"

The McAnenys raised three children, Colin, a geologist who lives in California. Wendy, now married to a psychology professor teaching at the University of Cologne, on leave from the University of Chicago, and Leslie, who served two stints in the Peace Corps in Brazil and now is teaching in a program for disadvantaged children in the Philadelphia school system.

They summered at Lake George, where Herbert climbs mountains and canoes. Each fall, for 30 some years it was back to the Country Day School, and for the past six to PDS.

"He has a phenomenal memory — remembering the alumni who they are doing. They call him, write, come see him. He has kept in touch with graduates who were concerned about, to see how they were doing. I think his wife was an ideal faculty and headmaster's wife. She did it well. And Herbert worked with her at McCenter when she directed."

Next year, Mr. McAneny will be back at PDS, with the young people he likes so well and who return his regard in full measure. He'll be director of drama, and for him, it's the icing on the cake.

MORE FAMILIES NEEDED
By Jaycees at Hosts. The Princeton Jaycees are one-third along the way in their efforts to place 80 Trenton children in suburban homes, but more families are needed so that no child will be disappointed.

Children selected will spend the week of July 14-21 with host families. They range in age from 7 to 12, and host families who sign up for the project will be able to list age and sex preference in order to match their own children. The week's activities will include a picnic for the boys and visiting children. Those interested in hosting a child should call 924-5587.

Regional School Board Problems Attract Vociferous SRO Crowd

A standing-room-only crowd, given to frequent applause and hisses jammed Community Park School Tuesday night to see what the school board would do about re-organizing the guidance department at the high school.

Others came to learn the future of grading policies at the Middle School and of the Wednesday program.

To everyone's surprise, Board president Robert Bierman suddenly announced that he'd been thinking it over about Driver's Ed., and would like to propose that the board direct the superintendent to start D.E. this September, finding the money where he could, but not dipping into reserves.

He was supported, 7-2, and Driver's Ed. is now in the drive.

ver's seat. C. George Fitzgerald ("I'm in favor, but this isn't the way to do it") and Henry Fowser ("It is improper for the board to originate curriculum") voted "no."

The board passed a series of administrative changes which Dr. McPherson told the press earlier would save about $510,000 this year and possibly another $5,000 next year. The action pares the list of administrative jobs from 30 to 26 over a two-year period.

The most controversial merges the high school's guidance department with the school system's Special Services. The job of Director of Guidance (George Petrillo) will remain in '71-'72, with Mr. Petrillo reporting to the Principal on administrative matters and to the Director of Special Services (Charles Huchel) for professional activities.

Evaluation Planned. Meanwhile, an evaluation of guidance and special services would be made. In '72-'73, Mr. Petrillo's Director of Guidance administrative job would be phased out. Dr. McPherson said Mr. Petrillo is currently the highest paid guidance director in New Jersey. His salary, under the current contract, is $20,500.)

Unanimously the board passed an amendment proposed by Mr. Fitzgerald requiring Mr. Petrillo as a member of the evaluating team.

The final vote was 5-4: Hannah Fox, Evelyn Geddes, Henry Fowser, Robert Bierman and Mr. Fitzgerald voting "yes" and Philip Cruickshank, Winthrop Pike, William Marvel and Kathleen Edwards voting "no."

Mrs. Edwards protested that guidance and special services were separate entities and should not be linked. Dr. Marvel quoted a memo from the administrators' association objecting to the new system, adding "We say we want to listen to the professionals but we're disregarding this professional group."

Mr. Pike said he wasn't convinced the change would improve the situation. He, Mrs. Geddes and Dr. Marvel all agreed that the new principal should have a say in the matter.

Salary "Unjustified." Mr. Fitzgerald didn't think the schools could justify the administrative salary of the Director of Guidance. Referring to the Administrators' Association protest, Mr. Fitzgerald said "When you diminish an organization, there is always distress, and we must consider this in evaluating the administrators' objections."

He pointed out that under the new set-up teachers will not be doing guidance, as usual. — Continued on Next Page mured. "That would be patently absurd," he stated.

Mr. Petrillo himself rose in the audience and declared he had not been notified of the proposed change until May 14, when Dr. McPherson and Dr. Huchet told him his title as Director would be abolished. "I was never consulted, nor have I seen a copy of the proposals," he stated.

Dr. McPherson replied that he told Mr. Petrillo "serious consideration" was being given to the project.

Wrong Man? Mrs. Alfred Green, 56 Herrontown Circle, who read a series of objections at last week's agenda meeting, charged Dr. Huchet with keeping the proposal secret from Mr. Petrillo and asked, "Why Petrillo? Why not place out Huchet?"

Names had flown back and forth all evening, and when a woman shouted, "When is McPherson going to stop pulling wool over our eyes?" Dr. Bierman handed his gavel and threatened adjournment if other personal attacks were made.

He ruled discussion at an end, though a few still wished to speak, and he was challenging with cutting off public comment. (Richard Magee later said he wanted to propose eliminating the dual reporting aspect of the change, in view of the upcoming evaluation.)

By a 6-0 vote (Pike, Cruickshank and Marvel abstaining), the board phased out the Special Assistant to the Superintendent administrative position of Norman Van Arsdale, who will return to part time teaching and part time work on physical education curriculum.

Associate Superintendent Eugene Bringer explained this was an economy but added that Mr. Van Arsdale's assignment "to head up the physical program" has progressed so well that he could return to a standard coordinator's job. He will be a candidate for such a post, Mr. Bringer said.

Job Redefined. By a 6-2 vote (Cruickshank and Pike "no," Marvel abstaining) the board redefined the job of chief librarian and coordinator of media services Jean McDonough. In 1971-72, decentralization of the library functions will begin.

This phasing out of adminis-

On the rain.

Dampness has been a way of life around here for weeks, even though total rainfall isn't setting any records.

A gradual clearing trend is on the way, with sunshine expected to prevail Thursday but likely to be replaced by showers Friday. Believe it or not, the weekend forecast calls for two fair and warm days in a row — but wait! It happens. It was in April that we last went from Friday to Monday without rain.

trative jobs follows last year's administrators' salary scale and this year's need for economy.

William Bux, new president of the teachers' organization said the TEA was upset about "abrupt changes so late in the school year" and asked a conference for this Thursday with board, superintendent and PRAA (administrators' association). Dr. Bierman promised him a reply this Wednesday.

The "Wednesday Program" was approved for next year, 53 with Kathleen Edwards abstaining. No votes came from Marvel, Cruickshank and Pike. Dr. Marvel, who has favored the program before, said he felt it was running out of steam and had no capacity for self renewal. He expressed concern that the full time coordinator has not yet been chosen.

The board adopted, unanimously, a school policy on "Student Progress Communications," assigning building principals responsibility for working out evaluation and assigning the superintendent to carry out the regulations.

Dr. McPherson will authorize the Middle School Principal, Thornton Grove, to continue with "narrative" reporting to parents.

PROTESTS TAXES

Asks More Township Rateables. Householders are moving away from Princeton Township because taxes are too high, declared Alan Richards, 617 Princeton-Kingston Road, before Township Committee Monday night.

Mr. Richards said his own taxes had risen from $400 in 1950 to $1,480 in 1971, and he named two neighbors who had sold their houses and left town because of taxes.

He also said a real estate agent told him families with children weren't buying homes in Princeton because they didn't want their children in Princeton's schools.

"We need more rateables in the Township to get the load off the property owners," he told Committee.

"We have the same concerns," replied Mayor James A. Finyd.

Committeeman John D. Wallace said he'd like more rateables, too, adding that it had been "a mistake" for Committee to reject a recent rateable possibility. He apparently referred to North Square, which he had voted in favor of. Mayor Floyd had cast a "no" vote in the North Square case.

Mr. Wallace said two paths were open to the Township: seek more rateables, and urge the state to adopt a more realistic tax policy. He said he favored some form of income tax.

Families with mortgages aren't always aware of tax impact, he pointed out, because mortgage holders simply incorporate tax increases into monthly mortgage payments. He expressed the wish that banks would itemize these tax payments.

In other business at the brief extra session, Committee introduced an ordinance providing for re-assessment of Township property owners. The ordinance, to be up for public hearing June 28 at another special meeting, provides $30,000 for the re-assessment job, whose exact cost isn't yet known.

The township hopes to start the process this summer and finish it by November 1 so that the new figures can be used for next year's taxes.

Peter J. Savalli, 29, of Trenton has been named to the Township police force. Committee had hoped to appoint three officers, but only one candidate of the eight finalists qualified. Mr. Savalli lives outside the Township's legal ten mile limit, but has said he will move within the radius to qualify for the job.

LEISURE TIME STUDY
Youth Group Lists Its Needs.
 Adults believe there are lots of things for young people to do in Princeton but young people themselves say — not so. School has just ended. The summer is about to begin and Princeton is, according to Robert Martin, new president of Youth Concerns, "in an urgent condition — time is not on our side."

Youth Concerns' special concern is the "older youth" from high grades up. "Yousters" have more going for them in Princeton than these middle-aged types, Mr. Martin says. Last Friday, Youth Concerns, which is an arm of the Council of Community Services, asked its members, including about a dozen "older youth," to do research and report back this Wednesday with ideas for special projects. Youth Concerns is eager, even anxious, for ideas. (Got some? Call Community Services, 924-5865.) A few so far:

- A "place" where kids can find out what permits are needed if somebody wants to sell hand-crafted candles, or where kids themselves can plan a rock concert.
- Night swimming at local pools other than Community Park.
- Poetry reading around the reflecting pool behind Borough Hall.
- Film-making, selling kids' own crafts.
- Rock concert.
- Jobs: how can Princeton reach kids not touched by Youth Employment Service, the Princeton Job Committee or the Neighborhood Youth Corps?

Flexibility Needed. "We don't want to get locked into any program," Mr. Martin emphasizes. "We want to test out ideas and evaluate; some things won't hit the mark, others will. We'll learn."

"Most important," he MUST reach out and get community co-operation."

Mr. Martin thinks Princeton, as a town, has tended to abdicate its responsibility to Princeton, as a University.

"We shouldn't speak of alternatives" to facilities the University has," is Mr. Martin's belief. "We'll never do anything if we keep thinking in terms of what the University has to offer. These are OUR children, after all."

Old Gym Considered. Both mayors have been enthusiastic and co-operative, Mr. Martin reports. He has a particular eye on Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley because of that vacant cinderblock gymnasium behind Borough Hall, the former gym of the old Miss Fine's School. Could it be "the place" Youth Concerns hopes for?

"It is a viable facility," says Mr. Martin with a gleam in his eye.

"I'd like to see them use the gym," Mayor Cawley said this week, "and I think poetry reading in the garden behind Borough Hall would be great."

Rock concerts pop up all the time in these rather general proposals. One suggestion was — a rock concert on the runways at Princeton Airport. Mayor Floyd says he doesn't mind a rock concert so long as it's sponsored locally and intended for local people.

Funds Necessary. Something else mentioned now and then is "money." There is no budget for any of this.

Mrs. Nancy Gryzbek, executive director of the Council of Community Services says there are "sources," but she declines to elaborate. She and Youth Concerns hope, for one thing, that operating money earmarked by the Recreation Commission for night swimming at Community Park pool can be diverted to part of the

Pick up Your Copy of "Summer Activities"

A booklet of things to do in Princeton this summer is even now in the Public Library for anyone to take home and browse over. It's also in both Princeton offices of the First National Bank and in the Shopping Center office of Princeton Bank and Trust.

It lists activities for all ages, indoors and out, bookish or fun, free or fee.

New this summer is the Co-ed YM-YWCA Soul Group, with a drop-in afternoon and evening program all week long through the end of July. Roller skating, a Talent Show and dance, swimming in the Y pool, a bike ride, softball, family picnics, movies, a lounge party, a trip to the Steel Pier and to the Palisades and on August 21, a trip to Canada are all on the list.

"Summer in the Streets" will fan out from the Princeton Youth Center starting the first week in July, and involving all ages in the Youth Center neighborhood. Teens will get day-trips.

Red Cross volunteers are needed to work in the Fort Dix Hospital, to give a children's party at the Neuropsychiatric Institute, to help in a Day Camp for retarded children, to work in Princeton's day care centers and to help the Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association assemble bacteriological data.

Volunteers to work through the Red Cross and help in recycling collections in July and August are welcome, also. Community House on Witherspoon Street, will again have a varied program for all ages, even pre-school, six hours a day every day in the week.

Total conditioning for high-school boys is offered by the YMCA, and high school seniors who will be entering college, are welcome, too. This is a 12-session get-in-shape program. And the public library serves everybody from pre-schoolers (songs, stories), to Thursday afternoon at the movies — all ages welcome.

Youth Concerns' work.

If a "place" is found and it isn't the Borough gym, some kind of rental would be required. And Mr. Martin and Mrs. Gryzbek agree that a person should be paid a salary to man the "place" and perhaps to do other Youth Concerns' summer work. This would help the program and provide summer jobs for kids — but someone has to tap a barrel of funds.

MARTIN ON FILM

For Channel 52, Stefan Martin, wood engraver who practices his art in Roosevelt, is the subject of a color film to be shown next Wednesday, June 23, at 10 p.m., over Channel 52. Recent showing have been scheduled for Saturday, June 26, at 7 p.m., and Sunday, June 27 at 7:30.

Frederick Oleski and Jack
Conover of Film Co., Inc.,
Lawrenceville, made the film which is called "Logos: Stefan Martin, Painter." It's the first in a series which will examine in depth the life and creative work of some of New Jersey's best known painters, composers, scientists and writers.

In the film, Mr. Martin talks about how and why he became a painter, and demonstrates the rare and difficult art of wood engraving. The viewer watches the artist from initial conception to final printing of an engraving called "Summit."

GARDEN

Investigation of a Citizen
is an exciting, above average suspense drama that dissects corruption in different levels of society.

Made in Italy and directed by Elio Petri, the film features Gian Maria Volonte as the complex character dedicated to upholding the law who will nonetheless use his authority to his own ends. In a corrupt world, he is more corrupt than anyone else.

Volonte won his second Italian "Oscar" for the role, one of two awards the film received at Cannes. Florinda Bofkan plays the part of the barely clad, earthy mistress.
(114 min.)

PRINCE

Little Big Man (now playing) Come and root for the Soux. With General Custer played as a pompous, evil man who raves and rants at President Lincoln while the Indians slay his cavalrymen all around him, the Indians become, somehow, highly sympathetic characters.

In fact, the whole film is a switch, shattering myths about the Old West with a satirical wit and genuine sentiment.
Dustin Hoffman is the son of pioneers massacred by the Custer. Adopted by the red men, he goes through a series of "periods," such as the time when he lives with a minister and his wife (Faye Dunaway) who turns prostitute, and professions (con-artist, gun-fighter, alcoholic, recluse and Indian scout), periodically returning to visit the old Indian he reveres as "grandfather." His greatest achievement is to be the single white survivor of Custer's Last Stand.

PLAYHOUSE
Bananas (now playing) is chock full of sight gags and one-liners, which should please Woody Allen fans. Allen's target is Fidal Castro, just as Charlie Chaplin aimed at Hitler in "The Great Dictator," only Woody comes off less well. The wildest jokes, in fact, are non-political... such as when the bashful hero eases into a Manhattan shop to buy a dirty magazine.

SHAPE DEFINED...

When you spell out the problem our way, it's simplicity itself. Start with a rich blend of Dacron. Model the basic suit to proportion by size and type. Add shape in the cutting. The result: a well defined shape.

IT'S NEW To Us

FERTILIZED EGGS

And 12-Grain Cereal. The Whole Earth Center has moved lock, stock and cereal barrels to the new Princeton Plaza at 334 Nassau Street. At last there's plenty of room — although manager John Kayser said on Saturday that new things coming in would fill it up pretty fast . . .

Specializing in natural foods, the Whole Earth Center opened last October 16 at 173 Nassau about opposite to Cox's Store. The response was so immediate that within a few weeks it was all you could do to move sideways through the tiny shop. It's a cooperative venture, extremely ecology-minded, and if you want to find the phone number, look in the local phone book under "Community Services." That's the way they think.

On Saturday, we discovered that fruit juices free of sugar and preservatives have been added to the wares. Raspberry, strawberry, cherry, and others, kept chilled in the big refrigerator.

Also organically grown radishes (big, beautiful things at 10c a bunch), loose lettuce (10c "a handful"), and rhubarb (2c a stalk).

You'll also find organic buckwheat elbow macaroni and organic whole wheat macaroni, both at 78c a pound. Fertilized eggs, of course, goats' milk yogurt and goats' milk itself. If that's on your list. Also unsweetened coconut, skim milk powder, both in clear plastic bags, and kept refrigerated.

Something new for snacks and especially great for backpackers is "Super Snacks." This is a mixture of: sunflower seeds, almonds, cashews, pumpkin seeds, raisins, sesame seeds, dates, apricots and figs — all raw and unsulphured. This is about as healthy a mix as anybody could have around . . .

Over on one-side of the big, clean store are the now famous barrels. Casually labeled with cardboard signs on sticks, they contain grains, flours and beans that are the heart of all the natural foods cookbooks. To some of us, they seem strange; to others, they are a return to simpler foods and simpler living.

Solar Cooking

Mrs. Stella Andassy of Kingston will give demonstrations of cooking with solar heat this Saturday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the parking area at Princeton Plaza. She will use a solar stove of her own invention.

The demonstrations are sponsored by the Whole Earth Center. Princeton Plaza is a shopping cluster at 334-362 Nassau Street, just north of Harrison Street.

Lifting the scoops and serving yourself (bring your own recyclable containers if you want), have a look at the Whole Earth Center's "12-grain cereal." This is a fine grind mixture of wheat, rye, oats, corn, soy grits, sunflower seeds, psyllium seeds, flax seeds, sesame, millet, buckwheat and barley. (40c lb.)

In the barrels are small, red azuki beans, cracked wheat, whole wheat berries, alfalfa seeds, rice flour, soy beans, chick peas, whole wheat bread flour, bulghur wheat, rye flour, barley, lentils, long grain and brown rice.

If you like honey, try the Whole Earth's buckwheat honey, wildflower honey, sage honey or tupelo honey. Peanut butter, carrying the Merit brand name, is made of unhydrogenated, roasted Virginia peanuts. Tucked to the side of the shelf is a recipe for sesame treats.

We saw Barbados molasses in big jars, nuts, red lentils, sunflower oil, corn germ oil and an intriguing "sweet rice tea," heralded as a delicate after-dinner drink — and one that we haven't tried.

For snacks, the Whole Earth also has dried fruits of various varieties, stacks of rice cakes, a honey-wheat mixture and a honey-alivered almond mixture.

We noticed Kuzu root powder, used by the Japanese as a soup thickener; a gadget for grinding spices, and, still going strong, the Whole Earth's most-in-demand mixture, "O-chel Tai-shi." Eat it dry, or add honey and milk.

The Whole Earth Center is prepared to change your eating habits just about entirely . . .

THINK LONG

For Beach And Home, Ladybug, at 16 Nassau, is showing some enchanting long dresses and skirts not only under its Villager label but also in some California imports, all in summer-happy colors.

For the beach siren, a long terry cover-up, slit to the waist; at both sides and buttoned on each shoulder. The slim lines . . .

are accented by a dramatic yellow-and-white print, high lighted in orange.

There's denim in a creamy color crossstitched in brown at the hem of a fluent long skirt with a shaped waistline. The matching short-skirts have a little of the crossstitching, too.

A long cool sofie by Villager comes in a cotton-rayon print of brown and white vertical pinstripes. The sides are slit nearly to the knee and there's a small inset yoke at the neck, held by five brown wooden buttons. Cut in a slim version of the caftan, the sleeves flare at the wrist. ($25) For the beach or at home, we thought.

Another Villager design uses bold navy and white stripes vertically, with a narrow edging of red at the cuff and around the deep oval neckline. Ladybug also has some interesting designs by Corkie Craig of California, including a ladybug. (The ladybug is a marvelous patchwork of medieval flower designs, inserted in triangle-shaped patches. Colors are reds, blue greens and yellow, with lavender and black accents.)

Also from California a two piecer in white — long white skirt in an acrylic knit with an abstract look of pale blue pink and cherry red at the hem, and repeated at the back of the bolero jacket.

The muslin look comes in a long dress with a romantic yoke and long sleeves. There's a long set tie. ($32) The full sleeve is gathered charmingly below the yoke.

Thinking of fall and possibly of cool evenings in Maine, Ladybug has brought in plant cardinals in prints of combining tiny flowers and stripes. Choose from the same fabric a long gown with a brief ruffle around the hip, or a grumpy dress, or a wide-hemmed skirt, a vest with five metal buttons, a collarless blouse with a small ruffle at the cuff of the long sleeve or short shorts, softly ruffled at the hem. Mix and match your own outfit, adding other tops from an extraordinary selection of types and fabrics.

Also for fall, if you're one who plans ahead, Ladybug has very amusing jacket-and-knicker combinations in a heavy velour. The print features sun yellow on cocoa brown in an intricate paisley design.

For now and later, you'll be interested in the shorts and matching top with a hand-knit look to them. The yarn is a rose-pink, flecked with white. Nearby is a romper style, with drawstrings at the abbreviated legs. The neckline scoops into a deep U, but the sleeves are modestly long. The fabric is the sunniest yellow possible, with small red-winged birds here and there.

NATURAL MOTHER VS. ADOPTIVE PARENTS: As illustrated by the DeMartino case in New York, when a natural mother who has given up her baby for adoption changes her mind, the question of who should keep the baby is not an easy one to solve. Two visitors from Scotland, Kathleen Ree (left) and Jean Cooper give their opinions below.

Question Of The Week

Question: When a natural mother attempts to regain custody of her child who has been legally adopted, on which side does your sympathy lie?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Alissa Sulphin, Laurel Road, housewife: I feel sympathy for both sides. First of all, for the family who has cared for the child and grown to love it, and for the natural mother who can give up a child in a certain emotional state or for a reason which could change — and later finds she could give it a home and love it. If I had to give an absolute, legal decision, I would sort of side with the family who adopted the child.

Mary Bazik, Evanston, Ill., teacher: My sympathy lies with the adoptive parents. Once a mother makes her original decision, I don't think it should be changed.

Kathleen Ree, 101 Leabrook Lane, student: If the child is quite happy in the home in which it's been adopted, then it should stay there.

Jean Cooper, 67 Leabrook Lane, student: It's not right for the mother to come back and claim the child. Once her decision has been made, she should have to stick with it.

Roger Pennell, Pennington, psychologist: If legally adopted, my sympathy is totally with the adoptive parents. My feeling is it is more or less childish and immature when the natural mother deems it expedient to give up the child originally. In trying to regain it, she may be trying to absolve herself from guilt feelings.

Minnie Herold, Cranbury, assistant librarian, Firestone Library: In general, I feel when someone adopts a child, it gets to a point where it is unfair to the child. The child is confused and doesn't know who his parents are. I don't know exactly at what age that is but I would say about one year. That case in New York, for example: I feel it's too late for the mother to change her mind. My initial reaction is that I just feel sorry for the child.

Emily Swartzentruber, Dogwood Lane, PHS sophomore: I think the natural mother has to comply with the law, but I would not want to be in her position.

Barbara Carnecki, Princeton High School sophomore: My sympathy lies with the mother but I don't think she

A Better Way?

Canada has a better way for solving contested adoptive cases, commented a Princeton attorney. The baby is not taken away from the mother and placed in an agency; she is allowed to live with it.

When the time for adoption comes, there must be a direct confrontation between the natural mother and the adoptive parents. The mother must then physically hand the baby over to the adoptive mother.

It is carefully explained to the mother that while it is a legal procedure, a large part of it is something she must do herself. "It's surprising how many can't go through with it when it comes down to it," he said. Once done, it is binding. There is no right of appeal.

should get it back, anyway. If someone cares enough to adopt a child, then they care more about the child than the mother who gave it away.

George Blaker, Levittown, Pa., architect and draftsman for Princeton firm: My sympathy is on the side of the adoptive parents. The important thing as far as the child is concerned is not natural versus adoptive parents but the quality of the parents who will raise it. It depends in some part on circumstances. When the mother gave up the child, was she forced to or did she do it voluntarily? If she was forced to, then it might be a mitigating circumstance. But by forcing I don't mean a teenager who was forced to give up her baby. Mainly though, my first statement is the way I feel. I think it is true 99 times out of 100.

Mary Bauhoff, Levittown, Princeton financial secretary: I don't side with the mother. I'd say the mother is 90 percent aware of what she is doing when it comes time to make the decision. Whether right or wrong, the decision was made at that time to give up the child and I think she had to learn to live with it and accept the consequences.

Mrs. Helga Lessig, Kendall Park, office manager: I think if the child is with the adoptive parents for a number of years, it should stay — if the child is happy and well taken care of. As far as I understand the DeMartino case, the natural mother is 33, is not married and would have to get some

WELL HELD

In Case of Fire, Two eighth graders at the Princeton Middle School, Randy Sutton and Roger Gambin, decided young people could be very helpful to families burned out of their homes by a disastrous fire. They approached Township Police with their idea and were immediately referred to the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"They came to us and we listened," said one of the Red Cross professionals.

The result is a new group called the Red Cross Youth Emergency Service. Since the day Randy and Roger walked into Red Cross headquarters, Youth Emergency Service has grown to 14 members, in 13 three times, formulated its "Purpose and Procedure" and elected an executive committee. The following, all in 7th or 8th grade at the Princeton Middle School, have joined the organization: John Christian, Bob Egan, Alan Fitch, Roger Gambin, Peter Healey, Pam Henning, Greg Kins, Steve Mays, Ronald Moore, Kristen Nelson, Roberta Nelson, Betsy Servis, Ward Shone, Randy Sutton, Randy Sutton and Roger Gambin. All attended an area wide Red Cross disaster meeting in New Brunswick and were assigned to serve on two local disaster resource committees.

The group has decided to hold regular monthly meetings and has discussed its purpose with Officer Walter Ennoff of the Township Police. With his help the group signed up five members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association who will act as adult supervisors when the group is working. In their own words, 14 young aides have declared their purposes: "to render service to families affected by home fires; by helping in all aspects of rehabilitation of the home . . . under the auspices of the Princeton Chapter of RED CROSS TO THE RESCUE: These Princeton High freshmen — at the moment, they're eighth-graders in the Middle School — have started a new program to aid to disaster victims, working through the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. (For details, see this page) They are Roger Gambin (left) and Randy Sutton, shown here in Red Cross headquarters. The fire-extinguisher is just a good and symbolic prop.

The group will sort and clean reusable articles damaged by the fire, helping in removing household goods, help the family in whatever the family thinks best, and collect clothing in the community if the Red Cross decides it's needed.

Any services the group gives will be under the direction of the family, and nothing will be done until fire officials have given their approval. Red Cross identification will be provided for all members of the group working at the scene of the fire.

Young people interested in joining should call Randy Sutton, 923-7552, or the Red Cross, at 924-2464.

TWO WOMEN ELECTED

As Trustees, at Princeton University, now completing its second year as a fully educational university, has broken with 25 years of tradition in electing two women to its Board of Trustees.

President Robert P. Goheen has announced that Mrs. John Douglas, a research chemist in Bethesda, Md., and 40-year-old mother of two, and Mrs. T. Guthrie Spicers Jr., a secondary school teacher in New Canaan, Conn., and 41-year-old mother of four, have been elected Charter Trustees of Princeton, a distinction they will share with 17 men. Both will serve for 10-year terms.

In commenting on these two new members of the Board, President Goheen said: "Princeton is fortunate to have secured the services of two such able women for its Board of Trustees. Each of them brings valuable experience of a particular kind and I am sure that they both will add important dimensions of awareness to the Board's deliberations."

The two women, both of whom are wives, daughters and sisters of Princeton alumni, have been named to Princeton's governing board effective July 1, with two prominent alumni, Stephen Ailes, Princeton 1933, Washington D. C. attorney and formerly Secretary of the Army, and James A. Elkins Jr., Princeton 1911, Chairman of the Board of the First City National Bank of Houston, Texas.

Mr. Ailes, 59-year-old native of West Virginia, a former A. A. Trustee of Princeton who is President and Chief Executive Officer of the Association of American Railroads, will also serve as a Charter Trustee. Mr. Elkins, 32 years old and a lifelong resident of Texas, will enter upon a 4-year term as Term Trustee.

Question Of The Week

Don't you think it is better for the child to have an established home?

Charles Dix, Long Beach, instructor at Princeton Computer Institute at Nassau. The side of the child — whichever is best for the child, definitely. If a natural mother gives up a kid in the first place and if other parents are willing to fight as hard as they are, as in the New York case, then I think the baby has found a home. It's hard to find anyone willing to fight for a child today, even the child's real parents.

Carol Mayer, Lawrenceville, Ga., wife of a doctor. With the adoptive parents, I don't think it is fair to the child or the parents for the natural mother to change her mind. Once she makes her decision, I think legally, she should have to abide by it.

Steve Hardie, Nashville, Tenn., student: I think the natural mother should have the right to reclaim her child — it's her child no matter what processes she may have gone through. If someone wants to press charges for desertion of the baby which led to the adoption, that's their business. But it is still her child.

Marilyn Walden, 78 Clay Street, secretary. It's a very hard question. My sympathy lies with both because I know how a mother can feel. I have six of my own. I think where a child has been legally adopted it should remain with the adoptive parents. If a natural mother is given an amount of time to decide what she wants to do and if she decides to give it up, I think she has to stick with that decision.

A $4,000 Surprise

Winner of the car at Saturday's Hospital Fete was Susie McMath, of Trenton, who had no plans to buy a ticket in the raffle. It was given to her as a surprise by her employer, Mrs. Richard G. Woodbridge of the North Road, and now she owns a Plymouth Barracuda valued at $4,000.

It will take some detailed arithmetic to determine the net proceeds from this 18th annual event, but $19,000 was raised by the auction. The English taxi which went on the block during the day was acquired by Bryce Thompson for $475.

All baked goods and handicrafts offered for sale were taken by eager buyers. The day's only mishap was an overnight leak in the water for the "girl dunk," so that was inoperable when the Fete began. By and large, however, the Fete as a major success (see "Mailbox," page 15), even the thundershower which the Weather Man had in store boding off until the 6 p.m. closing hour.

PHS GRADUATES 341

In Traditional Exercises, Outdoors on Harris Field, or inside the Princeton University Chapel with rain coming down on the roof—both locations have been on the schedule for Commencement exercises for the 341 members of the Class of 1971 at Princeton High School. In either case, the hour and the day are the same: this Wednesday, June 16, at 6:30 p.m.

The Rev. C. George Fitzgerald, Chaplain at Princeton Hospital and a member of the Princeton Regional School Board, is on the program for both the invocation and the benediction at the conclusion of the ceremonies.

Three student speakers are scheduled: Alvin McGowen, class president for the Address of Welcome; David Fry for the Salutatory Address; and Janet Breckenridge for the Valedictory.

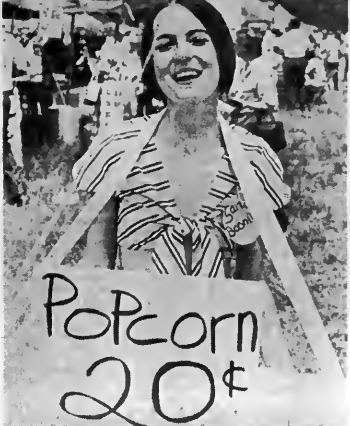

A complete list of All Class of 1971 graduates is on page 22 of this issue of TOWN TOPICS.

CO-OPERATION TRIUMPHS

Over "Flim-Flam" Attempt. A 72-year-old Township woman will have her $1900 because she, the Borough and Township police and bank officials co-operated here Friday to quail a professional "flim-flam" artist.

At his press conference Tuesday, Borough Mayor Robert Cawley praised the co-operation and skill of the two police departments. The police, in turn, reported that they could not have succeeded without the full cooperation of the intended victim whom they declined to identify.

Held in Mercer County Jail in lieu of $800 bail is Blanche Jones, 24, who gave police a Los Angeles address. "We don't know her right name—

IT WAS A GREAT DAY AT THE FETE: A heady bunch of volunteer firemen (top left) ready to leave on another of the countless trips made by the West Windsor Township fire truck and crew, one of the day's most popular attractions. Scott Wilson (top right) sat on the bumper of a Rescue Squad truck, displaying the peace sign and a bit of first aid he received, a band-aid on his middle finger. Sara Rounin found popcorn sales moved slower than soft drinks and ice cream in the heat, but her attire kept her cool. (Town Topics Photos by Tony Jackson)

she uses half a dozen aliases," signs that she was becoming suspicious," Chief McCrohan said.

Finally, the Jones woman met her intended victim and was apprehended behind the Getty Service Station on Nassau Street. She was brought to police headquarters and searched. The $1900 was allegedly found concealed on her person.

An Early Start. The day-long episode began at 8:40 Friday morning when the victim was approached in the Princeton Shopping Center by a woman who struck up a friendly conversation. As they talked, another woman approached and told them she had found a large sum of money but was told by her lawyer that she could keep it because it was "gambling money."

They were able to extract from the victim that morning $15 and a valuable diamond ring. After they took her ring, they arranged to meet her later downtown where—if she first showed her "good faith" by taking $1900 out of her bank account, they would divide the $6,000 the woman had found.

Becoming suspicious, the intended victim called her lawyer, who called Chief McCrohan. Officials of the First National Bank were notified and agreed to cooperate. Lt. Michael Carnevale of the Borough then took command of the joint operation.

During the next few hours, the suspect was kept under constant surveillance by police in unmarked cars. They followed her back to the Princeton Shopping Center, inside stores, watched her eat lunch. Still no contact. "She gave Taking part in the operation were Detectives Thomas Procaccio and Gallant for the Borough and Detectives Anthony Pinelli and Samuel Bianco for the Township.

Chief McCrohan cautioned people to "be very wary" of strangers who say they have found money and offer to share it. "It's usually elderly people they approach and they get them for every dime they've got," he said.

POLICE CHARGE DRIFTER

In Teenage Drinking Bout. A 25-year-old resident of Key West, Fla., whom Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan described as a drifter, has been charged by police with contributing to the delinquency of five teenage girls and two teenage boys.

Also charged as being a disorderly person is Gerald M. Pasquariello. He is being held in $3000 bail in Mercer County Jail to await a hearing set for this Wednesday.

According to police, Pasquariello allegedly purchased Tequila for the teenagers and it led to a serious drinking bout in an apartment in the 300 block of Nassau Street. Police declined to give the exact address.

School Vandalism Appalling.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The reports of vandalism in our school as reported last week in our local papers is not only appalling but most puzzling to responsible parents and other citizens.

The exorbitant amount of damages which must be paid for by all citizens because of the inability of our school administration to apprehend the vandals, certainly exceeds all reason. According to our State law all damages to public property must be paid for by parents if the offenders are juveniles.

How long must we continue to bear these burdens of irresponsible people — of hoodlums, vandals, etc? With all the problems needing attention and money, certainly we cannot at least expect our taxes to be used for worthwhile projects and not wasted on repeated renewal of buildings and equipment due to loss by vandals.

I don't object to paying increased taxes when they are used constructively, but when used simply for continual replacement of vandalized property. I rebel!

I feel that the school authorities have not made a strong attempt to check this development. They have refused to call in the police with the result that vandalism increases along with the cost to the taxpayer.

If this type of excessive waste is not corrected, you cannot expect me to vote for increases in school budgets for any purpose.

Chiao Smash Criticized.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Princeton Fete was, as usual, a delight and all responsible deserve the community's thanks. In fact, it is so close to being the perfect small town festival that one feels, if I may.

At one end of the Fete grounds was a large truck containing a machine that demonstrated the recycling of aluminum cans. I'm sure the display was intended to show both adults and children that the time is long past due when we can afford to throw things away indiscriminately. (As Governor Chinn said recently, there is no "away".)

Incongruously, however, at the other end of the Fete grounds was a booth in which children were invited to smash to smithereens those dinner plates that were near perfect. In fact, I had a chance to examine a few of them and was hard pressed to find anything wrong with them.

They were not for sale; they were for destruction only. The explanation was that the company that donated them didn't want this fine china to be sold in competition to their "perfect" plates consigned to stores.

To me this "explanation" is sadly inadequate. I can understand how the china company executives wish to protect their stockholders' dividends, but with millions of people eating out of rusty tin cups, it seems almost immoral that we affluent Americans feel content in destroying such things of beauty and usefulness.

Cannot this china be sent to places where their plates are not sold or perhaps sold as unmarked "seconds" as many manufacturers do?

If they must be destroyed, let them be destroyed in the factory and perhaps recycled. But let's not ask our children to do it. In a day when so many of the older generation criticize the young for smashing windows in protest against such greater violence as the Vietnam War, we in a spirit of "fun" ask them to smash almost perfect quality china. The only thing we demand of them before committing such an act is putting down that quarter for three dollars.

Many people are working to have such toys as guns and war games removed from the market because they tend to give the child the impression that war is exciting, adventurous and good fun. Does n't the china smashing game at the Fete do the same? Doesn't it subtly teach the child that destroying perfectly usable merchandise is just good fun?

The Princeton Fete is so near perfect, I hate to point out this minor flaw. I wouldn't for one moment want it destroyed because of it. It's too dear useful.

School's Future Explained.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
In his letter to TOWN TOPICS of June 10, Joseph M. Boyd misinterprets the major thrust of the recommendations of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long Range Planning.

The Committee did not so much recommend expenditures on construction of new High School facilities as major renovation of the existing ones.

It found that "even with overcrowding relieved, the High School facility is inadequately designed for a modern, flexible educational program." Rather than additional buildings, the Committee's plea is that "the funds... be better employed in revitalizing the school system and its educational offerings."

The reference in the Committee's Report to the possible elimination of Valley Road School as classroom space was a direct outcome of its population analysis. If in future years, the school population declines, as indicated, the Valley Road classrooms may eventually not be needed for teaching space.

Those who wonder to what non school use Valley Road School might be assigned should be reminded that the Princeton Township Committee has, during the past couple of years, expressed the need for more space in which to conduct its administrative and office functions.

The Committee took this fact into account and also the need for the two municipalities and the Board of Education to plan jointly for the most efficient and economical use of their total facilities, equipment and personnel. However, whatever use may be made of the building at that time cannot affect or be substituted for the alterations that are suggested for the present High School building.

The Committee saw the above as two separate issues. It was convinced that it is not the addition of mere space for high school purposes, but, primarily, the rearrangement and modernization of space and resources within the High School that merits the community's attention and concern.

Draft Filibuster Backed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Because we believe military conscription is inconsistent with Friends' Peace Testimony, and violates the rights of individuals in a democratic society, we hope the present draft law will not be extended beyond its expiration date on June 30. Therefore we support Senator Mike Gravel of Alaska in his fight against extension. Although we realize the filibuster will delay Senate action, extension of the draft — Continued on next page.

Economical Thoughts on Parks
To the Editor of Town Topics: These comments are occasioned by your editorial of June 10 entitled "Little Green Parks May Sprout," etc.

All these worthy objectives should be weighed against the alternative possibilities which will accomplish much the same purpose without overburdening the already burdened taxpayer.

Let me, first, furnish some background on the No. 20 site which is the filled in quarry back of the public housing for the elderly at the dead end of Spruce St. The local Public Housing Authority originally proposed to put the housing project on this interior tract. The federal authorities considered the filled land unsuitable and accordingly the project was moved to the location fronting Harrison St., North.

The new Borough zoning ordinance of 1968 puts this area in a district where multiple units (i.e., town houses or apartments) may be erected. Provided the Board of Adjustment approves, it has always seemed to me that, if half the area in question was unsuitable for the light construction Perfect weather and a huge joyful crowd combined to make the 18th annual Hospital Pic a resounding success.

We are especially grateful to Princeton University for the use of Winbur Field and to the many members of its departments for their assistance. To the other educational institutions in the community; to the municipal departments of the Borough, the Township and West Windsor; the Hightstown and West Windsor Fire Departments and the First Aid and Rescue Squads; to the news media, the Scottish Representatives and students of the English Speaking Union, The Chalet Club, the Conservation Coalition and the hundreds of area businesses and merchants, to donors, service clubs, unions and like organizations; to hospital personnel and regional school custodians; to scouts, study strippers, students, the hundreds of other individuals who helped in one way or another; and finally to the thousands who came — to the Hospital Pic Committee thanks you for a Whale of a Day!

proposed by the Public Housing Authority, it must be from an engineering standpoint, equally unsuitable for a private development.

Without checking with the Borough Engineer, I am unable to state what control he may have in the matter of withholding a building permit for a construction proposed to be built on filled land. However, that may be, the obvious solution is in the order of a "scholar development," that is to say, the filled land should be left open and the buildings should be placed on the other half of the property. The developer would be allowed to remove the density on the full acreage he owns.

All of this can be accomplished by the Board of Adjustment without necessitating the expenditure of any public funds. It was this thought which led the Borough Council last year to remove that piece of land from the map as park land.

Portinent in evaluating this suggested acquisition is the status of the tract on the east side of Harrison St., north. When I was on the Borough Council and interested in forwarding the project for the elderly, Kenneth Kessler, who until his death was the architect for the PHA, took me to see the land in the vicinity which he wished the Borough to establish as a park.

It was the land along Harry's Brook on the opposite side of Harrison Street from where the Housing for the Elderly now stands. The brook goes under Harrison Street, north, in a storm drain and runs in the open easterly parallel to Harrison Avenue.

The developer who has obtained the Board of Adjustment's approval to build condominium houses on that tract east of Harrison St. submitted a site plan which preserved the land along Harry's Brook as open space. The approval given to him was conditioned on that site plan's being followed.

Here we have the Borough planning ultimately to obtain an open space area, yet pocket or better in size, without any need to expend public funds. The saving to the Borough, by using this approach, is in the neighborhood of $100,000.

In closing, I might mention that the Borough already has two small playground areas south of Hamilton Avenue opposite the Choir College campus, between Chestnut St. and Linden Lane. If Hamilton Avenue can be straightened by eliminating its present south curve, these two public areas can be attached and consolidated to form a very nice pocket park, only one short block north from Spruce Street.

This street straightening remains on the Borough's maps. Its geographical proximity to the other relevant considerations when a cry is raised for the Borough's acquiring the land at the end of Spruce Street.

In this part of the Borough, we already have a very attractive 3/4 acre park and playground on Harrison Street, about a block and a half from the Housing for the Elderly, just west of the South side of Nassau Street.

I have confined my comments to only one of the several sites mentioned. Perhaps I shall write another letter on the others.

Three of the teenagers became unconscious, and had to be taken by ambulance to Princeton Hospital and were admitted. At the time, police did not know whether they were under the influence of drugs or not.

Ptl. Thomas Michaud, Ptl. Ronald Holiday and Sgt. Robert Anderson had responded to a 9:18 call reporting a girl lying in the street at Nassau and Chestnut. A second had passed out on Olden Street. Others were staggering about, police said.

The juveniles, ranging in age from 14 to 17, were later released to their parents. All were also referred to the juvenile officer for possible court action. They were residents of the Township, Borough and Cranbury. Police said that Pasquale met them when all were swimming in the Woodrow Wilson pool on Washington Road.

YOUTH, 20, DIES
From Apparent Overdose
What Princeton police have been predicting would happen, happened last week.

George W. Fleming, 20, was pronounced dead on arrival at Helene Fuld Hospital in Trenton Friday night, after police said he collapsed of an apparent overdose of narcotics. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Fleming of 311 South Avenue, Princeton June 10. He had left Princeton High School at the end of his junior year to enlist in the army.

According to police, Fleming collapsed at the Trenton home of Mr. and Mrs. Glasgow F. Rex. Fleming, they said, had gone to the home with the couple's son, Anthony Rex, 23, who lives at the Windsor Castle Apartments in Hightstown. Both Fleming and the younger Rex were employees of the Kentile Floor Co. in Hightstown.

County pathologist David Pluck performed the autopsy. Although police attributed the death to an overdose, the exact drug allegedly taken by Fleming was not known. Dr. Pluck said that final identification would depend on the results of toxicology tests.

The victim had spent most of his two years in service stationed in Okinawa. His father told police that his son had no history of illness.

Fleming is survived, in addition to his parents, by a brother, Mark, and a sister, Barbara.

TWO FACE HEARING
In Narcotic Charge, A Witherspoon Street man and a 19-year old Princeton Junction girl faced a hearing in Borough Court Wednesday afternoon as a result of a narcotic charge by Borough police.

Charged with possession of narcotic paraphernalia for use of the administration of drugs are Douglas Griggs, 22, 216 Witherspoon Street, and Cynthia H. Tukey, 10 Northcote Drive, Princeton Junction. There were arrested Sunday evening after police stopped their car at the intersection of Bayard Lane and Leigh Avenue.

The narcotic paraphernalia was allegedly found in the car by Patrolmen Arthur Jackson, James Agins and Victor Fasanello. The officers were armed with a search warrant. A third occupant in the car, not identified, was not charged.

THREE YOUTHS CHARGED
With Trespassing on Campus, Three Princeton area youths have been charged with trespassing on the Princeton University campus and face a hearing Wednesday in Borough Court.

They are John H. Wells, 18, 414 Walnut Lane, and Thomas J. Fowler Jr., 19, and Richard Novatoski, 20, both of Clarksville Road, University Precinct. Russell Shangle, the complainant, told police he found the three sleeping in a dormitory room.

TYPEWRITER STOLEN
From Church Office, The Rev. William Arthur Jackson, who conducts a street ministry in Princeton, reported the theft of an electric typewriter from his office last week.

Mrs. Caldwell, who lives at 20 College Road, was away at the time. Police said the brick was found in the hallway.

TWO ARE FINED

For Drunk Driving. Two Princeton area residents were fined Monday for drunken driving in Borough Court.

Judge Theodore F. Tams Jr. fined Joseph E. Cavanaugh, 18, 3 Barrien Avenue, Princeton Junction, $210 and revoked his license for two years. Cavanaugh also paid a $10 fine for a late inspection violation.

David Seckel, 18, 607 Prospect Avenue, paid a $60 fine and lost his license for six months for driving while impaired by alcohol. He paid two additional fines: $15 for careless driving and $10 for driving without a license.

Stuart L. Ridgway, 48, 4 Cherrybrook Drive, was fined $15 for careless driving. He pleaded guilty.

NO CANDIDATE YET

Will Begin Search Soon. With the shock of Republican candidate William R. White's death only a week in memory, Township Republicans have not yet begun to find someone to replace him on the ticket in November.

"We will begin actively seeking a candidate almost immediately," said John Yoeman of the Township Republican organization, "and of course we'll confer extensively with our other candidate, Mrs. Barbara Smoyer."

Republicans have until September 23—the 34th day before election—to file a candidate.

No Paving for Nassau

Nassau Street won't be paved in 1971, that's certain, and it's only a "maybe" for 1972.

The state's Department of Transportation has so notified Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and the mayor said this week that the Borough may appeal the decision, if officials can decide just whom to appeal to.

The Borough wanted Nassau—it's a state highway—paved from Washington to Harrison because that's where most of the patched-up holes are. Harrison to Snowden was done two years ago with overlay.

The last full-scale paving job was right after World War II. Administrator Robert F. Mooney recalled this week that the state ripped out trees in front of the old Nassau Street School (now the University's Creative Arts building) and thereby caused such an uproar in town that the mayor of that day, Charles R. Erdman Jr., was summarily defeated by an aroused electorate even though the tree-removal wasn't his fault.

PDA WINS

With Chairman. Miss Mary Perone, 244 Witherspoon, was elected chairman of the Borough Democrats at the post-primary organization meeting held Monday night in Trenton.

She out-drew her opponent, Mrs. Jan Schmeier, 28 Murray Place, by 8-6. Miss Perone is affiliated with the old-line Princeton Democratic Association and Mrs. Schmeier with the liberal Princeton Community Democratic Association.

Mrs. Schmeier was re-elected District 2 Committee-woman in last week's primaries. Her husband Edward is Democratic candidate for mayor of the Borough.

Miss Perone was quoted as saying that she supports "the entire Democratic organization," leading observers to predict that she will support Mrs. Marie Coan, PDA stalwart, who is running for mayor as an independent.

Borough Republicans elected Charles Taggart as their captain. Township Republicans re-elected Frank Reiche, Township Democrats re-elected Mrs. Elaine Schumann.

AUTHORITY IS BORN

Sewerage Group Formed. The Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority formally came into being last Thursday.

Extra Bixby of Pennington, was elected chairman and Malcolm Roszel of West Windsor, vice-chairman. John Strange, Princeton Borough, was elected secretary and Theodore Pierson of Hopewell Township, treasurer. Other representatives on the six-town Authority are Denn Chace for Princeton Township and William Walker for Hopewell Borough.

Poster Jacobs, who was chairman of the parent body known as the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Group, urged the new Authority to give top priority to hiring a full-time executive director, who would also have to be a licensed New Jersey engineer. He said the new man should be "the best man available, whatever the cost."

TO DISCUSS POOL

At Township Committee. A proposed ordinance providing stricter rules for fencing swimming pools in Princeton Township will be before Township Committee at the regular meeting next Monday at 8 in Township Hall.

The formal public hearing has been closed, although Mayor James A. Floyd allowed residents to speak about the ordinance at the municipality's last regular public meeting.

Also on Monday Committee will introduce the ordinance for widening the next segment of Alexander Street—the one from a point near Faculty Road almost to the Borough line—and an ordinance reducing the allowed weight of trucks on Mercer Road from five to four tons.

Alcoholic beverage licenses will also be up for renewal.

TWO CARS TOTALLED

In Separate Accidents. Two automobiles were a total loss last week as a result of separate, single car accidents in the Township.

William D. McCloskey, 39, of Hibben Apartments, where he is a maintenance man, remained in satisfactory condition in Princeton Hospital Tuesday for injuries he received when his car left the Princeton Kingston Road at 1:40 Tuesday morning and struck two trees. The mishap occurred near Locust Lane.

Mr. McCloskey's car also tore up about 50 feet of split-rail fence. Charges are pending the outcome of the investigation by Ptl. David Funk.

In addition to his car, Glenn T. Miller, 25, of Trenton, also totally destroyed a utility pole which he struck on Route 206 Saturday morning near Hilltop Road. He was treated at Princeton Hospital for abrasions of the arms, contusions of the hip and abdomen.

Mr. Miller told Ptl. Michael Koplner that he remembered nothing about leaving the road or hitting the pole—only about rounding a curve just before the accident. After striking the pole, his car crossed the foot of Hilltop Road and came to rest on the lawn of 244 State Road.

He was found by Ptl. Koplner slumped across the front seat, his head extended from the window, bleeding. He was given oxygen which seemed to revive him and was then taken to the hospital. There were no charges, pending a re-examination by the Motor Vehicle Department.

PAY-DAY DELAYED
Council Tables Salary Measure. The Borough's six Councilmen can't line up at the paymaster's window quite yet. After a long discussion at Council's June meeting last Wednesday Councilman Joseph Moore moved to postpone decision until a special Council meeting scheduled for Monday June 28, at 8 p.m. and every one agreed.

The ordinance would provide $750 a year for a Councilman and a raise of $500 to $1,000 a year for the mayor, for a total of $5,000 a year. The $750 is the maximum allowed for communities like the Borough by state law. Borough Councilmen have never been paid anything. The mayor's annual $500 goes back to 1910.

"You should ask the people to vote this salary FOR you," get a referendum on the ballot," declared Mrs. J. Stuart Hunter, 100 Bayard Lane, adding that if the question was not placed on the November ballot, "some of us will do our damnedest to get it there."

She praised Princeton's tradition of volunteer service, and charged Councilmen with promoting "what you want the taxpayer to do for you rather than what you can do for the taxpayer."

"You aren't a volunteer when you're elected for public office," replied Scott Bailey, 90 Cleveland Lane. "You expect people to call up and bend your ear at 2 a.m. and villyou, and I'm sure your phone STROLLING PLAYER: If John Brede does any strolling, he'll do it in a Brophy shoe because the young singer-guitarist is appearing on Palmer Square these days through the courtesy, as the saying goes, of Brophy's shoe store, which also happens to be on Palmer Square. Mr. Brede, who comes from Kralworth, N.J., has been singing during the noon hour for the refreshment of passers-by.

Bill and your car mileage for n in the Child Guidance drug abuse project, or as part hard. Besides I'd like to see a situation where the poor/ment can aspire to serve. I don't want anyone to say, 'I can't afford to.'"

"Only a Token." When Mrs. Charles St. John, 283 Prospect Avenue, characterized the $750 as a "token payment," she was challenged by Councilman Moore who retorted, "It's much more than a token for many people." "I meant that you on Council do much more work than $750 a year," she explained. She urged Council to "hold the lid" on taxes because of the current recession and suggested a wait of one or two years.

Councilman Martin D. Lombardo predicted that Councilman of the near future would have to travel more, especially to Washington to seek Federal funds for Princeton, and he said he himself had already spent close to $750. He has been to Washington, he told Council, inquiring about Federal money for programs for the elderly.

"I'm lucky because I don't have children—I can eat peanut butter sandwiches," he said, adding that men with families might have difficulties.

Travel May Be Involved. A Councilman who is out of town and must return on urgent Council business and then go back to his out of town assignment runs into expense, observed Councilman John Strange. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said the Borough had expense money for this kind of expenditure, and Mr. Bailey suggested that Council review what's "expensible" and what isn't.

"Nobody would run for office just for the $750," commented Edward Schaefer, 48 Murray Place who is the Democratic candidate for mayor. "It's better to have a fixed sum than to fill out $2.50 checks for a babysitter, which may not even be a legitimate expense. And there is a commitment and more expectation from an elected official than from a true volunteer."

Mr. Moore said it was unlikely that another black man like himself would feel he could afford to run. "They want to serve, but can't afford to—maybe cannot afford to give up a second job—and this is unfair."

Status Quo Favored. A long play for the status quo came from Councilman Charles Cornforth who urged Councilmen not to set themselves apart from other volunteer groups saying, in effect, "We deserve it, you don't." He said the money could better be used for more library books, an additional contribuof a kitty toward a new fire engine. I've seen no evidence that better-qualified people will sit on Council if this goes through," he declared. "It's Robin Hood in reverse: take from the poor and give to the rich."

Councilman Alice Mue suggested a reduction to $250 a year, and both she and Mayor Cawley said they liked the idea of a referendum.

The mayor said the timing was bad, with unemployment and an increasing tax burden.

How About the Mayor? Replying to comments on volunteerism, Councilman John Strange observed that the $500 mayoralty salary hadn't seemed corrupting.

"We want to change the kinds of people who serve," he commented. "Residents from just one economic class have been decision-makers in the Borough. The $750 may encourage people who think they've been left out."

A motion by Mr. Cornforth to change the ordinance so that nobody presently on Council would benefit, didn't even receive a second.

Mr. Moore said he didn't want the question to become "a political football" and suggested a referendum.

One Man Peace Corps To Aid Mexican Village

Robert Kanaby, 36 Bank Street, will travel to a small village in Mexico in August to help break the cycle of poverty that has held the townspeople in its grip for centuries.

Tepeapaca, located just 25 miles north of Mexico City, has a population of around 3,000, all of whom glean a bare subsistence from the impoverished soil. Industries nearby offer a chance to earn a better living, but will not hire the men of the village because they lack a secondary education. At least 80% of Tepeapaca's adults are illiterate.

Until recently, there has not been money for a school in the village, which has no paved streets, no telephones, no toilets and water only at central spigots, which are turned on twice a day for 45 minutes.

The man who hopes to change all this is Padre Caltejas, a Mexican priest. He has helped to get a small school built and in addition to training children in the traditional subjects, he will attempt to teach trades so that the people of the village may be employable.

Some instruction has been given by part time volunteers; a doctor from Mexico City teaches biology two hours a week and university students come to teach history and math on an irregular basis. Now through a chance encounter earlier this year, Mr. Kanaby, who will receive his master's degree in special education next month, will teach full-time in the town for a year.

A teacher in the Montgomery Township school system, Mr. Kanaby became acquainted with Mr. and Mrs.

OFF TO TEPEAPACA: Princeton resident Robert Kanaby will be off to the small village of Tepeapaca in Mexico in August to teach its educationally deprived inhabitants. With him is Padre Caltejas, a Mexican priest who is trying to expand a secondary school there.

George McMahon, 9 Johnson Drive, Harington. The McMahons, as Mrs. McMahon tells it, have always wanted to visit Mexico, but "didn't have the money when we were young and take their children, because Mr. Kanaby agreed to come along as a tutor for them."

After 18 years of marriage they decided to go this winter for three or four months and take their children, because Mr. Kanaby agreed to come along as a tutor for them.

While camped in a Mexico City trailer park, word got around "through the grapevine that Bob was a teacher," Mrs. McMahon explains. He was approached by the Padre who explained the village's problem, and asked if he would be interested in helping.

After a visit to the village with the McMahons, and some time to think it over while the group travelled around the rest of Mexico, Mr. Kanaby agreed to come back for a year to teach at no salary.

His immediate objective is to raise around $3,000 to expand the tiny school, which can not begin to accommodate the children, who would like to attend. One fund-raising event has been planned so far, a "barn sale" on July 10 and 11 in a barn belonging to Mrs. Henry Campbell, 81 Mountain Avenue. Those willing to donate items should call Mrs. Robert Coates, 359 4264, for pick-up of the items.

gested postponement until June 28.

Pay to Park. Also on that date, Council will hold a public hearing on a revised ordinance setting $3 instead of $5, as the monthly fee for all-night parking in the Chambers and Spring Streets lots. The $5 fee is already charged for the Park Place lot.

Mr. Lombardo, seconded by Mr. Strange, proposed the reduced fee on grounds that the $5 would be a hardship for many families. He asked whether the registration and permit work would actually cost the Borough $5 per customer.

Mayor Cawley cited the difficulties of cleaning and snow removal in lots full of cars and the need for additional police protection in checking on the cars.

When Mr. Lombardo said costs were fixed and that the Borough wouldn't need to hire extra police, the mayor said the over-night use of lots could mean less police surveillance elsewhere.

Think of the Taxpayers. Mr. Cornforth upheld the $5 again at the $3 reduction: "It's $2 the taxpayers won't have to pay next year," he declared.

Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan observed gloomily that car owners will simply take their cars out of the more expensive Palmer Square lots and sign them up in municipal lots.

With Mr. Cornforth and Mrs. M. M. Vasing "no," the $3 amendment passed. Attorney Gordon Griffin ruled that it constituted a "substantial change," so a new ordinance was introduced. On that vote, Mrs. Male abstained and Mr. Cornforth held on to his "nay."

In other business: Council: Agreed to consider for World Citizenship resolution on June 28.

Approved increase licensing of Mr. Lombardo voters not because he felt small liquor establishments should not be required to pay as much as larger ones.

Raised the question of possible license fees of $3 to $5 for cyclists, to help pay for bicycle paths.

Reduced Edwards Place speed to 15 mph and banned parking there from 9-10 a.m.

NEW REGULATIONS SET For Woodrow Wilson Pool. Student and young people who often used the reflecting pool at the Woodrow Wilson School for an impromptu bath or swim will have to find an other place to wash. A new set of regulations governing the pool and plaza will take effect Monday.

The pool was to be drained this Wednesday to be cleaned, and refilled Monday. Swimming and wading in the pool will henceforth be prohibited and a general policy designed to insure the safety of persons using the Woodrow Wilson School plaza will go into effect.

This regulation is essential for health and safety. University officials explained. The pool does not meet established standards for wading and swimming, including the requirements of chlorination, as municipal authorities have made clear.

Also, injuries have resulted in the past from broken glass and other objects on the floor of the pool and from contacts with the fountain. Thus, it has become necessary to keep people out of the pool to prevent injuries and illnesses and to protect the University's legal responsibilities. To protect persons walking or sitting on the plaza, bicycles will not be permitted on the plaza.

The University, after consultation with the Mayors of the Borough and the Township and with civic groups, has adopted this policy out of concern for the well-being of all members of the Princeton community, including younger and older residents of the town, members of the University, and visitors to the campus. Through the cooperation of all persons the University hopes that the reflecting pool and plaza can be maintained as an attractive and safe area. Without this necessary cooperation, the University would be forced to leave the pool empty throughout the summer.

Visitors are also reminded that unlawful activities, for example, the sale of illegal drugs are strictly prohibited on University property. In addition, the consumption of alcoholic beverages on the plaza is prohibited.

Inquiries and suggestions may be directed to Leslie E. Livan Jr., Director of Community and Regional Relations, 317 Nassau Hall.

YOUTH KILLED TUESDAY

In Route 296 Crash. A crash involving a dump truck and three other cars on Route 296 Tuesday morning near the Montgomery Township municipal building claimed the life of a 19-year old boy and critically injured another.

Rushed to Princeton Hospital by the Hillsborough First Aid Squad, Alan R. Schmidt, 19, Willingboro, was pronounced dead on arrival at 7:45. Listed in critical condition in the hospital's intensive care unit is Edward Beck, 20, also of Willingboro. He sustained multiple bone fractures and possible internal injuries.

Two other Willingboro youths were less severely injured. All were riding in a small foreign car. Bennett Kolber, 20, the driver received an injury to his right leg and Michael Hugson, 20, a possible fracture of the right shoulder.

Treated and released was James J. Shoupock, 23, of Buffalo Grove, Ill., who was also involved in the accident. He was treated for head lacerations and contusions of the tongue.

Kolber is reported to have been the center line into the path of the truck, colliding with the truck and two cars behind it. No charges have been made, pending completion of the investigation by State Police.

CAREER AWARDS MADE

To Recognize Potential, Ten Princeton High School seniors have been named winners of the third annual Princeton Career Development Awards. The program, the first of its kind in the nation, honors and aids financially — when needed — students with talents and skills in vocational or technical fields.

The 10 students selected in the 1971 program are: William H. Clauser, William A. Nathan, Dale R. Spruill, Sally Ann S. Squitieri, Patricia A. Wilson, all of Princeton; Deborah S. Albanese, Princeton Junction; Anthony F. DePiano and Linda A. Ernst of West Windsor; and Jesse L. Langston and John C. Wills of Plainsboro.

The 1971 award winners join 24 other students who have received special recognition since the community-supported program first singled out students with capabilities and strong interests in vocational and technical careers. Like past winners, those selected this year will take one or two year programs in community college or business or technical schools to prepare for such careers as accounting, electronics, art and design, and fashion merchandising.

The students were chosen by a committee of community representatives, some of whom also serve on the Career Development Awards Program's 19-member Advisory Committee. The Selection Committee bases its decisions on recommendations from fellow students, teachers, or employers; on personal interviews; and on information provided by questionnaires and tests.

The Judges, Serving on the 1971 selection committee were Mrs. Eva J. Critz of the Chamber of Commerce, Miss Mary E. Moore of 28 Quarry Street, Max D. Blumenfeld, manager of the Princeton Plant, American Cyanamid Company; Bruce H. Edwards, assistant director of personnel services at Princeton University; Alfred L. Kettell, Jr., attorney; Raymond F. Male, associate professor of political science at Rider College; Robert Nelson of Nelson Glass & Aluminum Company; and Arthur T. Shuck, director of community services at Mercer County Community College.

While the total amount of the financial awards in the 1971 program is more than $2,000, the size of each scholarship is based on a student's financial needs. Thousand-dollar winners who do not need scholarship aid to continue their education are granted honorary awards.

Sponsors who have pledged to support Career Development Awards in 1971 are Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Toplin of 55 Armour Road, American Cyanamid Company; The First National Bank of Princeton; Princeton Bank and Trust Company; and RCA's David Sarnoff Research Center. In addition, funds were provided for the 1971 program through grants by the Princeton Youth Fund to Princeton residents and by the Princeton

SPORTS in Princeton

ROSSI TOP ATHLETE

At Princeton High School, LaJohn Rossi, who lettered in four major sports, has been named the best all-around athlete at Princeton High School for 1971.

Rossi, who will enter Cornell in the fall on a full scholarship, was one of the better tailbacks to guide the Little Tiger eleven in recent years. As a heavyweight wrestler, he advanced, in his junior year, farther than any PHS wrestler before him in the post-season district matches.

He won letters in baseball in his sophomore and junior years playing for coach Harry Zell. In his senior year, he switched to lacrosse where he quickly won a starting berth as a defenseman. His greatest assets were his strength and physical size, 6'0, 265 pounds.

The top basketball prize, the William D. Wolman award, was captured by Billy Evers, as captured by LaJohn Rossi. Tigers this year with a 13.4 average.

The award is presented to an outstanding player who exhibits distinguished sportsmanship and a gentlemanly influence. Evers was also the recipient of the Most Valuable Player Award in basketball.

Track's highest honor, the Jerry Cypress Award, was won by Lawrence Parker. It is presented to the athlete who exhibits courage, sportsmanship and leadership qualities as exemplified by Jerry Cypress, former PHS track star who died in a drowning accident.

LaJohn Rossi
Top PHS Athlete

Parker set a school scoring record for one year this spring when he amassed 123½ points. His specialties were the javelin and the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Joe Bolster, captain of the track team, was named most valuable on the school's cross-country team for the second year in a row. He ran the mile and two mile in track.

HITTON ALL-AMERICAN
Other Tigers Are All-Eastern. Jack Hitton, one of the few college pitchers in the nation to win as many as 9 games while going unbeaten this spring, has been named to the All-American team. He follows catcher Arnie Holthberg, honored in similar fashion last year, and gives Princeton the highly unusual distinction of having players named to the nation's top honorary team in successive seasons.

Hitton compiled a fine 2.20 earned run average this year, his nine-game string raising his career record at Princeton to 17 and 3. He showed outstanding control, a sharp curve and a fine change-up, all qualities which should lead to a career in pro ball, even though he was not selected in last week's draft by major league teams. In his final game against St. John's, one of the top teams in the east, he hurled a 2-0 shutout, allowing two hits and striking out 13.

Hitton was one of two pitchers named to the Eastern League All-Star team after winning four games there and compiling the identical 2.20 average he had overall. A repeater on the team was first baseman Bob Schiffer, who hit .419. Closer with these two were shortstop Ray Hurd, who batted .294, and outfielder Paul Colburn, a second team selection, whose average was .295.

Schiffer was drafted by the New York Yankees, while Hurd had been tapped by the Detroit Tigers at the end of his junior year. Biggest news in the draft was made by Pete Broberg, Dartmouth's fireballing pitcher, who signed with the Washington Senators for a bonus that reportedly reached six figures. He had a year to go at Hanover and despite a 1.80 earned run average in league action this spring was no better than 2-3.

W. W. Augustine, Mrs. Malcolm Drezner and Mrs. Benton Camper.

CREW AT SYRACUSE
For Annual Regatta, Curtailed athletic budgets to the contrary, the largest field in seven decades of intercollegiate rowing will enter the national regatta at Syracuse this week end. Princeton will be represented during the three days of double elimination races, all of which will be staged over the Olympic distance of 2,000 meters.

Although the Tigers are the only college crew to have defeated Navy — the favorite — they are not accorded much of a chance to finish among the top entries. After beating the midshipmen, they failed to win again, whereas Navy outrowed Harvard and Penn, generally recognized as the best in this part of the country.

Washington is the defending champion and a good bet to do well again this year. The Huskies come from the Pacific Coast unbeaten. A general lack of funds and the high cost of maintaining crew as a sport has not proved a deterrent to a number of colleges which will enter the national regatta for the first time. Among them are Massachusetts, Alabama and three from California — USC, Santa Clara and San Diego State.

BOTH LEADERS LOSE
In Business Softball, Educational Testing Service and Cities Service found their perfect records and one-game leads a thing of the past last week, as both suffered defeats.

Cities Service was upset by lowly American Cyanamid, no better than 1-4 at the time, while ETS, not surprisingly was beaten, 8-5, by McGraw-Hill, which thereby gained revenge for its only loss of the season. The teams are now tied for first with 6-1 marks, and will meet once more during the season.

RCA A pounded out an 11-7 triumph over Hopewell TV to move just one game back in third place. Five runs in the first, four more in the second and two in the third gave RCA all it needed. Two four baggers by Joe Frangipani helped lift IDA to its fourth victory of the season, 17-9, over RCA B. Pete Savill also had a home run and the IDA defense turned in three double plays. Bill Gurgurich, Lee Neuwrith, Charlie Rowe, Jack Barro had hits each.

Firmenich won its second game, blasting ERC, 27-12. Ray Faulkner, Bob Pagano and Al Duffield had five hits apiece; Tom Callaghan a 2 and Bob Elkins had four each.

Earlier, a five-run second inning plus the third were two to Teague in the Country Square. Steve McLean, Frank Brooks and Bob Bartlett all had two hits apiece for the victors. Teague's Charlie Peers and Rick Embury continued to hit well for The Country Square, each getting two safe blows.

TRAINING MEALS END

At Osborn Club House. With the elimination of morning training meals for Princeton's football teams, the University's 81-year-old Osborn Club House, site of the athletic training table since it was introduced, has probably served its last such fare. Next fall, as an economy measure, Tiger football players will have a training meal only in the evening. Sunday through Friday — and will do so in Jadwin Gymnasium, which adjusts the practice field.

The gift to the University of Henry Fairfield Osborn '77, Professor of Comparative Anatomy here from 1878 until 1933, the small brick-and-wooden structure on the corner of Princeton and Osborn has now busy days and literally hundreds of athletes.

From its completion in 1890, it provided meals on a regular basis in season not only for Orange and Black football teams but also for such spring squads as rowing, baseball and track. Visiting teams could also order training meals at Osborn when coming to Princeton. During the springs when the Sprint Championships of the Eastern Association of Rowing Colleges were held on Lake Carnegie, crews from some 20 competing colleges and universities took their meals at Osborn in shifts, according to the schedule of races.

Given as a varsity club house, Osborn also served special pre-game meals to both Princeton and visiting teams until 1969 when ever-spiraling costs brought about a sharp curtailment of the training meal program.

According to police, the victim had gone to the First National Bank annex on lower Nassau Street to cash the bi-monthly checks of women in the office. She did not notice anyone following her. From there she went to the A&P in the Shopping Center before driving back to the lot behind the Bankers Association building.

Help Recycle Saturday

Princeton's fifth monthly recycling day will be held from 9 to 12 noon this Saturday at the University parking lot off Faculty Road. Because Lawrenceville's collection has been cancelled, material its residents have should be brought to Princeton.

Recyclers are asked by the Conservation Coalition to bring clean material only. Glass should be separated according to color, and metal items into tin, aluminum and bimetal. Remove metal rings from bottles and flatten cans after moving the ends. Dry newspapers should be tied in neat bundles.

There's a call for volunteers to help with the growing number of recyclers. Wear heavy shoes, long pants, long sleeves and gloves.

UNIVERSITY GETS GRANT For Fusion Research. Princeton University's program of hydrogen fusion research — a search for a clean, cheap, abundant source of energy — has received a $50,000 grant from Detroit Edison Company, the Michigan electric utilities firm.

Recent successes in the field of hydrogen fusion research — conducted at Princeton at the Plasma Physics Laboratory on its James Forrestal Campus — have sparked the hope that controlled hydrogen fusion can be demonstrated in the 1970's.

Fusion research has been supported at Princeton and elsewhere in the United States, largely by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. It was successful, a practical fusion process using a part of the hydrogen in ordinary water could safely produce unlimited quantities of power without smoke, carbon oxides, sulfur oxides, or radioactive ashes.

Dr. Melvin B. Gottlieb, Director of the Plasma Physics Laboratory, stated that while AEC support has been and continues to be essential, it is nevertheless timely and perhaps even crucially important that federal funds be supplemented by grants from electric utilities. "It is fair to say," he commented, "that more progress has been made in the last year than in the previous ten."

"We now know what must be done to establish, during the 1970's, the feasibility of fusion power. To do it, we need to build some devices larger than the ones we have been using — at a time when pressures on the federal budget are exceptionally severe."

Surround yourself with trees, grass and history.

There's plenty of all three on what may be the highest spot between New York and Philadelphia. Certainly it's one of the most historic, if not the most beautiful. Just 15 homes will be custom built from your plans or ours abutting Greenacres Country Club Golf Course. Each will share in a sweep of common land... and in views and privacy all but vanished these days. Isn't all this worth $50,000 or more?

AMERICAN PRIMITIVE — in the style of Appalachia. Big kitchen fireplace, hand planed wide boards on floors and ceilings, interesting porches and 2 stairways in the 6 room house. Would be a great guest house when you convert the large hand hewn, pegged beam barn into a grand house. The several sound outbuildings would make great studio space.

Back on a stone road near the lovely Wichecheoke Creek in some of Hunterdon County's most beautiful countryside, it all needs a LOT of work including plumbing but the potential is tremendous for making this a truly distinctive restoration.
